What are the strengths of the school?

Community.

Consistency in staffing, all of whom demonstrate a positive and caring attitude towards students. Also a knowledgeable and dedicated board of trustees is a huge but often-unseen strength. The ability for field trips and bringing in educational guests is outstanding. Overall, the amount of adult interaction each child receives fosters incredible maturity for such young people.

What would you change about the school?

Not really anything.

More families/students. For social aspects, but also because we believe it would provide for a richer learning environment. I'm not sure the students are challenged enough within such a small school body. Also, the girls could stand to play outside more and inside less, preferably with longer recesses. International studies support this idea.
